

A degree in History provides you the skills that are applicable to a wide range of specializations & careers. History is a very important subject for any competitive examination, be it for job or higher studies.

One can pursue law, publishing, journalism & the media, librarianship and archive work, teaching, advertising, work in the development sector, etc.

After graduation, there is wide scope to pursue specialization (Masters) such as Modern History, Archaeology, Museology, Islamic History & Culture, Ancient Indian History & Culture.

History is a subject that is taught in every school and college across India that can provide huge opportunity for a teaching career.

Tourism has been developing as a new career , where History background can be of immense value.

For those who are interested in further research, History can open a treasure trove. Opportunities to study History abroad is immense.

Study History for a bright career

Study History for a bright career @ Victoria Institution (College)

Victoria Institution (College)

- Gives ample opportunities to students to explore History as a subject
- The college has a mini museum with several interesting artefacts
- There is a well stocked central library with internet facility
- Department has adequate faculty for imparting the guidance to students
- Department arranges periodic educational tours to historic locations
- The department arranges seminars and extension lectures and other departmental activities
- ICT facilities are used for lectures

- Students develop critical & rational thinking skills
- Strengthens the sense of investigation
- Gives a comprehensive idea about politics, society, culture, and economy
- Knowledge of location-specific History improves ambient development
- Improves sense of preservation of artefacts
- Story-telling capacity makes students good educators.