Teachers Day Celebration

Department: Philosophy

Even when the entire Globe was petrified by the onslaught of a deadly virus, our students did not forget to pay tribute to their teachers no sooner than they got an opportunity. Though they couldn't make it a face to face event, they made it virtual. We were overwhelmed.

On fifth of September, 2020, it was a complete lockdown. We were taking classes virtually. They informed us a day before. Requested us to grace their programme with our presence. We couldn't but respond.

Girls took part in various performances. They sang, recite, even danced. Some of them took chance of uttering their hearts.

Before closing the ceremony they requested us to perform whatever we can. Some of us took the scope to recite Tagore's poem. All of us blessed them in abundance.

The ceremony ended with a note of harmony and strong bondage that lie in the teacher-student relationship.
